

NEPC 2020

Department of Education
National Education Policy Commission
New Delhi, India

Introduction

The National Education Policy Commission (NEPC) was constituted by the Government of India in 2019 to review and recommend a new National Education Policy for India. The Commission has held several public consultations and has received numerous suggestions from stakeholders across the country.

The Commission has taken into account the challenges and opportunities facing the Indian education system. It has identified the need for a holistic and integrated approach to education, focusing on the development of the child's personality, intellect, and physicality. The Commission has also emphasized the importance of digital education and the role of technology in transforming the education system.

The Commission has also highlighted the need for a multi-stakeholder approach to education, involving parents, teachers, and the community. It has recommended the establishment of a National Education Council to oversee the implementation of the policy. The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes.

The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes. It has recommended the establishment of a National Education Council to oversee the implementation of the policy. The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes.

The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes. It has recommended the establishment of a National Education Council to oversee the implementation of the policy. The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes.

The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes. It has recommended the establishment of a National Education Council to oversee the implementation of the policy. The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes.

The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes. It has recommended the establishment of a National Education Council to oversee the implementation of the policy. The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes.

The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes. It has recommended the establishment of a National Education Council to oversee the implementation of the policy. The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes.

The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes. It has recommended the establishment of a National Education Council to oversee the implementation of the policy. The Commission has also emphasized the need for a focus on the quality of education and the role of assessment in ensuring learning outcomes.

National Education Policy Commission
New Delhi, India

Dr. K. Kasturba, Chair, National Education Policy Commission
New Delhi, India

Page 1 of 1
Date: 10/10/2020